Description

An Extremely Rare Mid 19th Century English Country Tavern Chair, Or High Clerks Chair, Having Elegant Turned Upright Spindles To Bowed Back Over Superbly Figured Saddle Shaped Seat Raised On Elegant Tall Turned Legs And Stretchers (Every now and again we come across something we absolutely love and of a design which we have not come across before. This chair is exactly that. The overall design is typical of a mid 19th century smokers bow, or captains, chair but of course it stands on much taller than normal legs. It is almost certainly not a Childs high chair as the width and depth dimensions would mean any small child sitting in it would get be lost. It is certainly a chair made for adults to sit in and we bought it simply because we love the overall quality, uniqueness, design, patina and colour. It would of course now make the most perfect focal and talking point in any room with no doubt every person that sees it intrigued as to what it's original use could have been. From a functional point of view we think there are many places it could be used, but it would certainly work well at a tall desk, modern kitchen, breakfast bar/island or even pulled up to a ho...
