Description

George III oak pot board dresser base This George III oak pot board dresser base was made circa 1810. As this is of longer length than the usual dresser it shows that this was not in a humble estate cottage but in one of the important kitchens of one of the large farmhouses in the country estate this was made for. It also has the interesting inlays that again set this aside from the usual examples. It is fitted 3 drawers along the top and 4 small drawers under. The double arched front above the pot board running along the base with 3 turned legs to the front and the usual square legs to the rear. These are fabulous and versatile items that are wonderful pieces to place in your home. They can be used in hallways, drawing rooms, dining rooms and kitchens, providing not only great display and storage but also to enhance the home. Imagine the enjoyment you will gain having ownership of this as well as the pride when you show it off to your family and friends. 190cms long 74 1/2ins 41cms deep 16ins 85cms high 33 1/2ins All Measurements are approximate, whilst we take care in measuring there may at times be a very slight difference.
