Description

A good early 20th century oak hall table or buffet in the 17th century style, the crested top with carved flower and a rectangular top with moulded edge over a frieze carved with a blind arcade and with a drawer fitted to each side, with turned column supports to a lower tier with a plain raised edge. English circa 1920. Condition: Excellent, the table is solid and robust, the drawers slide well and the handles are the originals. The table is very well made with good proportions and has a very pleasing warm colour and patina.
