Description

A good quality, elegant small antique Georgian mahogany dressing table mirror or toilet mirror dating from circa 1780. With beautifully figured mahogany frame with chequered inlay it stands on ogee bracket feet. It has three drawers, the middle with lock and key, the rectangular mirror plate in swing frame with shaped supports and topped with turned brass finials. Really good example with good colour and patina to the mahogany, it is also a nice neat small size. Construction: Mahogany Condition Report: Good condition with good colour and patina. Working lock and comes with a key. Mirror plate old, appears original – some loss of silvering in places (especially towards bottom) but very much useable. Wear and marks commensurate with age. Right hand upright slightly loose. Left finial slightly bent in photos, now straight. Dimensions: Height to Finials: 60cm Width: 40cm Depth: 20cm Mirror Plate: 25m x 40cm
