Description

This is a stunning chest of drawers. I have a similar console table that came from the same house and as with the age and origin of the piece is tricky to be sure of. Looking at all the dovetail joints and colour of the wood I would date it to the early 20th century and the origin is European most likely French. Great quality carving all over and the condition is very good. Just a slight split to the wood on the left side. All drawers run smoothly and have large bronze handles which work so well with piece.
