Description

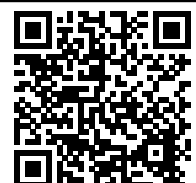

This little dining Sofreh was quite probably woven by a young Afshar girl circa 1900, learning to weave from around the age of 5 years. This might have been one of her first weavings as she prepared to make a dowry for her marriage at 17 years of age. I love the abrash in the natural camel-hair field and the off-set 'eye' - symbolically warding off the evil eye! Size: 57cm x 46cm (1' 10" x 1' 6").
