Description

How fabulous is this ? can't be mistaken for any other era can it. This is an early 1930's Art Deco chrome Powder compact case by Richard Hudnut. The lid features a very distinctive Art Deco profile of two faces in green and cream enamel on a chrome back ground with wavey lines to one side. The back is engine turned decorative design. Still has some caked powder inside. Originating from the US this compact is in great vintage condition and a true delight. Also has an attached lipstick holder, this often is missing. Overall condition is way above average, there are some very light surface scratches which is to be expected. The enamel is excellent and free from chips, the chrome is very bright and clean and has no pitting or tarnishing. Rare colourway. FREE UK DELIVERY Bio Richard Hudnut died at Juan-les-Pins, France, at the age of 73 (June 2, 1855 – October 30, 1928) Around 1880, a small pharmacy was opened in New York city and sold perfumes, cosmetics and assorted toiletries. Richard Hudnut, the son of the proprietor of the shop, became the first American selling luxury perfume presentations, (though some of these were created in France) in an elegant shop which was dir...
