Description

A good early Georgian walnut bureau circa 1730 in very good condition considering its great age. The bureau has wonderful full grain burr and curl walnut with herringbone banding and cross grain mouldings. The drawers have all oak linings and original brass plate handles, the interior is nicely fitted with cubby holes drawers and centre cupboard, and a new leather writing insert. The fall front has a working lock and a single key. There has been some light restoration over the years; these are just minor patches of veneer. The bureau has been professionally cleaned and waxed and retains its original patina and wonderful colour.
