Description

This highly decorative and intricately carved Anglo Indian ebonised hardwood armchair (Circa 1880) is in excellent original condition - it even retains its original buttoned oil cloth cushion that was put in place during the chair frames construction, and is supported by a caned panel of the same age. A lovely untouched example. Anglo Indian furniture was produced in the 18th & 19th Centuries for the colonial British market. Measurement to the top of the cushion - 44 cm
