Description

Fine early Victorian mahogany partners desk by Druce & co london The desk consists of 9 oak lined drawers to the front and the apposing side has three drawers with two cupboards . The Desk is very good quality as should be expected by a very well known London maker and retailer . a little history about Druce & Co below Druce & Co were renowned antique furniture cabinet makers and furniture restorers based in Baker street London. They would make, upholster and restore furniture for the wealthy clientele throughout the Victorian era. Druce & Co was established Thomas Charles Druce and his son, Herbert Druce took over the business in 1864 when Thomas Druce passed away. Druce & Co was listed in the Marylebone Trade Directory of 1853 as 'Furnishers, Upholsters and Upholders for clients of discernment'. Druce & Co furniture was one of the most well known furnishers in the UK throughout the Victorian and Edwardian periods but unfortunately during World war German bombers destroyed most their building and stocks so they ended their business. It is in very good condition with very good quality leather insert with gilt tooling . The comes in three sections for transport and ...
