Description

This is a striking antique card table. An English, book-matched walnut and boxwood inlay folding bridge games table, dating to the Victorian period, circa 1870. Beautiful Victorian craftsmanship for the finest gentleman's lounge. Displaying a desirable aged patina, in good original order. Superb book-matched walnut offers fine grain interest. Deep russet hues beam beneath a wax polish finish. Demi-lune in form, the attractive top graced with quality boxwood inlay. Rotating with smooth action through 90-degrees, revealing a shallow card box. Deep emerald green bridge baize in two parts, opening upon brass strap hinges. The quality later baize set within a deep walnut frame with appealing figuring. Pierced fretwork apron adorns the top, dressing the gently rolled edge with eye-catching detail. Turned baluster support over a foliate carved decorative bulb. Gently arched knees finished with leaf motif uniting the leg and column with ornamental stretchers. Standing upon scrolled toes with further leaf detail and riding upon a quartet of ceramic castors. This is an exquisite antique card table, with profusely figured walnut, stocks and a delightful expression of carved detail. Sure to e...
