Description

George V mahogany pillar dining table This solid mahogany George V mahogany pillar dining table twin pillar dining table was made at the start of the 20th century using timber from a larger Georgian dining table that had become redundant or too large for a later owner. The table with 2 D-ends and a further 2 leaves to extend the table. The top is cross banded all around edged with a box line inlay. A pair of mahogany turned gun barrel columns with the quadruple legs support the table. Each leg is fitted with the wonderful cast brass toes with the castors under. The table can be used with no leaves or using just one and of course both extra leaves. This makes for a very versatile dining table to suit the sitting you require as you entertain your family and friends. As this table does not have a leg to each corner you can entertain more people around it and helps extend the seating numbers you may require. Imagine how wonderful this dining table will look in your dining area and the joy you will have as you entertain your family and friends. 239cms long fully extended with both leaves 94ins 134cms closed without leaves 53ins 102cms wide 40ins 71cms high 28ins Each leaf 51.5...
