Description

A stunning antique pendant of a rare and unusual design, likely Edwardian but possibly earlier. The nine-carat rose gold frame is set with six split pearls and five faceted pink gemstones, topped with scrollwork and finished with a beautiful clear aquamarine faceted pear drop dangle in a decorative claw mount. The eyecatching pink stones are gemstones (tested but unidentified), likely pink topaz or tourmaline. In very good antique condition with little sign of wear to the stones and the pearls retaining their lovely gleaming nacre. Pendant size: 3.2 x 2cm. 4cm total drop. Weight: 3.9g.
