Description

This sought after and evocative publication by George Philip & Son & Nephew of Liverpool (Circa 1900) is often found in a very poor state because its tantalising contents attracts the enthusiastic hands of the younger readers. However, this example is complete and in very good condition. Its 16 pages of informative and illuminating text with fold out paper manikins conjures up the period of publication perfectly. The images provided show are only a portion of its contents.
