Description

The dial of this charming mahogany wall clock (Circa 1900 - 1920) is only 8 inches (20.3 cm) across. Its compact size is such an attractive feature and makes for easy placement within the home. Both the case and spring driven movement have been sensitively restored. Its pendulum, bezel and securing pegs are original and the clock keeps good time over its 8 -day duration. Small dial clocks have always been desirable, and this is a nice example.
