Description

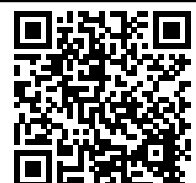

A beautiful and atmospheric 17th Century carving of Nandi. It comes in its totally original state and was bought from a large collection of Asian artefacts which were part of a deceased estate. Although there are signs of age, it feels solid and heavy. Nandi is the most iconic and revered figure in Hindu Mythology. In Sanskrit, Nandi means, Nandi is a sacred bull. He is vehicle and gatekeeper of the Hindu deity Lord Shiva. Nandi is the reason why all Hindu worship cows and bulls. Almost all Shiva temples display a stone sculpture of the seated bull, Nandi, generally facing the main shrine. The word "Nandi" came from the Tamil word Nandhu "happy and joyous". Nandi's abode is KAILASHGIRI, the abode of Lord Shiva. We can deliver free of charge in UK mainland and can quote for international delivery. Payment by bank transfer or PayPal
