Description

A nice example of a much sought after Art-Deco mantle clock by the highly regarded maker GARRARD. The clock has an 8 day, Westminster chime movement, striking on the quarters and the hour with a lovely resonating sound. Garrard clocks are renowned for their high quality with engine turned finishes on the solid brass plates and proper steel pin and brass insert-bushed bearings. They have an excellent reputation for the fine quality of both their movements and cases. The classic art-deco style case is finished in golden oak with a lovely rich patina. Fitted with original chromed spade hands with black Roman numerals on a silvered dial (the numerals are a little faded, commesurate with the age of the clock), with bevelled, flat crystal glass in a chromed bezel which closes firmly.
