Description

Increasing in demand, now people are working from home, here we have a very nice antique pine writing desk c.1920, in very good condition throughout. Currently in the bare wood having recently been stripped. The top section has two glazed cupboards both with working locks and a single shelf inside. In between the cupboards are a couple of bookshelves (cubbyhole). The top has a gallery surround. The bottom section has three drawers, all with working locks, above two cupboards each with a single shelf, and the central knee hole. The cupboard doors have working locks with keys. The desk is stood on bun feet to the front and block at the back. A really useful feature with this desk is that the writing surface pulls out making it easy to sit at for working. The top separates from the base for delivery. Can be purchased in the bare wood for £710 or wax polished for £797. Height 58.5", Writing Surface Height 32.5", Width 49.5", Depth 26.5"
