

SA808082

A pair of Edwardian armorial shields by James Rogers of Oxford

Price

SoldItem Reference: SA808082*Date of manufacture: Edwardian

Dimensions

Height = 30 cm (11.8")

Width = 22 cm (8.7")

Depth = 3 cm (1.2")

Description

These evocative and richly painted armorial shields from the Early part of the 20th Century are a decorators dream. They would make perfect additions to a period or contemporary interior, however, in conjunction with old leather and panelled walls you are instantly transported to University life @ Oxford or Cambridge, in a trice. The reverse of each, bares the stamp of James Rogers of 51 High Street Oxford. James worked between 1880 & 1931 as a sculptor, craftsman in wood and heraldic artist. When displayed in large numbers these original shields look amazing, so this pair could start your collection ! The arms on the left are of the Worshipful Company of Drapers, one of the livery companies in London. The arms on the right hand side have the arms of Exeter College in Oxford on the dexter side, and on the sinister side they are likely to be the arms of a rector of the college (still researching).

Seller Details

Culvertons

42 A West Street Dorking Surrey RH4 1BU United Kingdom

Tel: 0777 542 6867 or 01306 770212

International Tel: +44 777 542 6867 or +44 1306 770212

