Date of manufacture: 18th Century

Description

Here I have a good period oak drop leaf dining table. Circa 1750/60 in solid English oak. The table has a gate leg action that pulls sideways to hold up the dropped leaves, There is a drawer at one end which has a hole in the bottom probably worn away over its 270 years of use. I can get it replaced if required by the buyer. This is a very nice table and a good colour. 4 feet 2 inches long by 1 foot 3 inches when closed. 4 feet diameter when open.
