Description

This beautiful Georgian double-lipped wine rinser is etched with stars, always a sought-after design. It dates circa 1795. The lower section etched with stars and bordered by a fine diamond cut frieze. Smooth pontil to the base. Rinsers were filled with water and were used by diners to cleanse their wine glasses between courses of a meal. A wine glass could also be left to rest in the rinser, held in place by one of the lips, thereby keeping the glass cool in preparation for a chilled wine. These days they make beautiful rose vases or can equally be used for custard and other culinary preparations. Dimensions: Rim diameter: 10cm / 4 inches. Height: 10cm / 4 inches. Length from spout to spout: 13cm / 5.2 inches. Condition: Very good. Delivery: PLEASE DO NOT FORGET TO ADD POSTAGE AT CHECKOUT.
