Description

A lovely adjustable reading table dating from the mid to late 19th Century. The table stands on a large turned column on a shaped foot with small castors below. The height of the table is adjustable and it ratchets smoothly up and down from a low height of approx 26" / 66cm up to 38" (97cm). The angle of the table top is also adjustable and can be tilted to both sides and it has two raised galleries on either edge for holding books or music sheets. The cast iron mechanism is stamped with the makers name "Carters Patent London". It is in good condition for its age and has developed a lovely rich patina. It is strong and sturdy and all the parts move well. There are some minor signs of age and use, some surface marks and small knocks around the base but nothing detrimental and it displays beautifully. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
