Description

Super quality rare solid silver serving tongs. They have been hallmarked for London 1894 with the makers marks being those of William Hutton. They have been superbly made but perhaps most interestingly engraved with the crest of a Moors Head - this has associations with several families including the Barthwick clan, Muir family and others. They are in superb condition being free from dings splits and repairs. They measure over 9 inches (22.8cms) long and weigh 128 grams. Very good quality rare and interesting examples.
