Description

Dating from the 1880's, this German 'Vienna' spring-wound wall clock is in excellent condition with the case and eight day movement having been restored and the excellent condition original dial being adorned by the original hands. The clock strikes the full hour at the hour and once at the half with a lovely mellow tone on a coiled gong and the stabilising brackets to stop the clock moving on the wall when the glazed door is opened are present. As with all my clocks this handsome piece comes with a two year guarantee for peace of mind. Rather than trusting a courier of any sort I unreservedly recommend collection or I can deliver and set-up free regionally or nationally at a competitive rate, with a full handover experience to answer any and all questions. These clocks have a fragile glass and even the best courier damages items. Also the pendulum will need reattaching within the movement so it is far better for a dealer to meet a client and talk them through the process, or set the clock up properly for them, rather than leave the client struggling at the other end on their own.
