Description

An Edward VII inlaid mahogany occasional table, the rectangular top with boxwood cross-banding, both sides with a central inlaid splat with the ER cypher under the Royal Coat of Arms and tendrils in the Art Nouveau manner. A most unusual table of the type retailed at Liberty & Co. in the Edwardian period, however this table would appear to have been made as a commemorative piece for the coronation of Edward VII in 1902. In excellent condition with the remains of an old depository label to the underside.
