Description

A quality Georgian period bow fronted stick barometer. A flame mahogany case with choice veneers and a convex middle and an original brass finial to the swan neck pediment. A concave and convex pediment above the scale from 27 to 31 inches. Signed 'W & S Jones, London' to the finely engraved silvered dial. A vernier slide adjuster with the original set knob. Canted corners to the cistern with a Georgian stripe inlay. Circa 1795. William & Samuel Jones are recorded in Banfields' 'Barometer Makers and Retailers' book as working from 1788. They are noted as 'important instrument makers' and the sons followed in the business.
