Date of manufacture: Edwardian

Description

This is a truly wonderful and silver rare dip pen with penwipe. The end of the silver handle pulls out to reveal an extending silver dip pen. The other end of the pen is a penwipe. This is in virtually mint condition as it would appear to never have been used. It has been polished over the years as the makers mark is rubbed. Marked for London 1903 and possibly made by the silversmiths Wilson & Gill. The cardboard box is definitely from Wilson & Gill, the address in Oxford Street is quite clear and you can just see "Gill". The box is in reasonable shape. The pen also carries a registered design number 368290 Length 17 cm including penwipe Length of pen extended 12 cm Diameter of silver handle 1.3 cm
