Description

This is a stunning quality 19th century English country house open armchair. It has wonderful deep buttoned details which give it a great decorative appeal as well as an inviting look. The way we have chosen to upholster this piece is in a deconstructed manor. Using upholstery material and hand tacks we opted to leave the back open and make the hand tacks the details as they really accentuate the design of the piece. This is a look we have done for a number of clients but a first for us to put on sale. It really will be a great addition to a space.
