Description

George V large mahogany dining table This George V large mahogany dining table is of an impressive size and can seat 14 plus. The design is the classic Regency/Georgian style a design that has graced important homes since they were first used from 1780 onwards. The dining table stands on 3 pedestals that have gun barrel turned columns with the legs sweeping off and the toes of cast brass toes with castors under. The superb top with a satinwood banded edge. It consists of the 3 table sections and then 2 leaves that can join the table to make this of a substantial size. A dining table like this can be used with or without its extra leaves and so that gives you plenty of different seating sizes. Imagine entertaining your family and friends around this and the pleasure it will give you. It could also be used as an important boardroom table. 403cms long fully extended 158 1/2ins 276cms closed without leaves in place 108 1/2ins 114.5cms wide 45ins 75cms high 29 1/2ins The 2 extra leaves 62cms 25ins each.
