Description

Antique mahogany pedestal dining table This solid Antique mahogany pedestal dining table was made circa 1900 using timber from a larger Georgian dining table that had become redundant or too large for a later owner. The table with large 2 D-ends and a further leaf to extend the table when required. A pair of mahogany turned gun barrel columns with the triple legs support the table. Each leg is fitted with the wonderful cast brass claw toes with the rolling castors under. The table can be used without the spare leaf in place, especially as each D-end is of a good size. This makes for a very versatile dining table to suit the sitting you require as you entertain your family and friends. As this table stands on pedestals it allows you to seat more people around it compared to tables with a leg to each corner. Imagine how wonderful this dining table will look in your dining area, and the pleasure you will have as you entertain your family and friends.
