Description

A pair of very good quality Edwardian carved oak bergere armchairs with double caned panels and deep seats, the arm terminals in the form of winged cherubs, with blind fret carved front rails and raised on claw and ball feet, upholstered in pale pink damask fabric with loose feather filled back and seat cushions. In good condition, the canework is good and strong - one small area of damage to the back of one of the outside panels. The fabric is nicely worn, a few marks in places but in very useable condition. I can arrange to have the chairs re-covered if preferred. The backs 72cm high, 72cm wide outside arm to outside arm, the seats 73cm deep overall (59cm with the cushion) and 40cm high including cushion. I also have the matching two seat sofa available.
