Description

Stunning large carved antique Black Forest cuckoo clock depicting the theme of the "Fox and the Raven". A favourite of Aesops fables, 'the fox and the raven' is the story of a wily fox who outsmarts a raven for a grape. Beautifully fine carvings of the bunches of grapes, fox and raven with glass eyes. It features a charming hand-painted cuckoo bird which animates from behind it's little door and sings in the half hour and hour (a succession of 'cuckoo' calls, corresponding to the time of day). The clock also has a corresponding gong striking the hours. Arched door opening to a fully articulated, painted Cuckoo bird. Raised, ringed chapter ring with Roman numerals and original carved bone hands. Thirty hour chain driven movement with original pine cone weights. All working!! 24ins high x 19 ins wide x 8ins deep Please note, whilst the clock currently works, during transport, all clocks are moved around a lot, and therefore, they may require setting up upon receiving them as well as the possibility of requiring professional assistance or a service as they can get 'stuck'. There is no guarantee that the clock will work smoothly after it has been transported.
