Description

This is a very smart 19th century French empire side table. It is complete with a very good condition grey marble top that only has some light marks consistent with age. The boarder to the marble is a pierced brass detail which lifts the whole piece. The body of the table is made from mahogany and it has two pull out drawers and two pull out leaves that I believe were originally for drinks. These have been recovered in a green baize but should you want us to put this back to leather then we can do. Overall condition is very good with minor age related marks and dings to the brass boarder. In addition to the boarder there is brass used around every panel to the table. Then capping the elegant reeded legs it has bronze feet which really shows you the quality if the table. Height 72cm Diameter 68cm Price including UK mainland delivery
