Description

Very rare VULLIAMY MAHOGANY BRACKET CLOCK signed Vulliamy on the dial & on the movement. ~ C.1820 ~ Architectural style case with pitched pediment and ebony stringing. The sides edged with ebony stringing and further line & dot inlay framing the brass ring handles. The canted corners to the front with ebony stringing, with corbels top and bottom. The rear glazed door revealing the signed back plate. The front door with conforming sight ring and ebony stringing rising to rococo tops, all subtle and restrained. The base of the clock with reverse dental mouldings in ebony and supported on ball feet. An old repair can be seen on the top left corner of the front door, and despite careful choice of grain and colour, has faded more than the rest of the case. We also think the case was repolished at the same time, to help blend it in. It's actually comforting to see an old repair! The dial in heavy silvered brass, with pitched top, having engraved chapter ring with Roman numerals and typical Vulliamy steel pierced heart hour hand. In the apex a further engraved slow/fast regulator dial. Signed Vulliamy, London, to the dial centre. The fabulous heavy plated maintaining power mov...
