Description

Technical Description A very impressive 18th-century wine glass. It has a round funnel bowl engraved with a stylized rose and two smaller flowers with a jaybird looking back. Sits on a single series opaque twist stem consisting of a multiply corkscrew. Conical foot with a snapped pontil. An excellent Jacobite Sympathy example, the standard six-petalled rose with two buds being replaced by a very unusual stylized wild rose with two small flowers, one on either side. The Jay is purported to be a symbol of the usurpation of the Stuart Kings, the wild rose referring to fertility being restored again and the white rose of the Stuarts. The white rose was also worn to celebrate the 'Old Pretenders' birthday (James Francis Edward Stuart, son of James II of England) Date & Origin England, c1760. Period of George III. Condition Excellent, age-related wear as shown, no chips cracks or restoration Dimensions Height: 14cm Rim diameter: 4.9cm, Foot diameter: 6.2cm.
