Description

A Very Attractive 17th century Refectory Table in Oak, it has a thick three plank top which is probably later (18th century) but it sits well on the table (it is fixed) the baluster turned legs are superb in shape and the leg stretchers are original and well worn it has shaped brackets on the top of the legs but only on one side which means it was used as a serving table to sit against a wall but apart from the brackets both sides are the same, the condition is excellent and it has a great colour and patina, very solid and no loose joints, a good table. circa 1670
