Description

An Antique Edwardian Sterling silver double photograph frame which has been designed as two rectangular silver frames standing in upright positions with attractive bow features at the top. There are hinges that neatly join them together which can be adjusted to alter the position of the frames and keep them standing upright and steady. The velvet style backing, which has been renewed over time to make it look more presentable, can be removed entirely from the silver frame which is the sign of superior craftsmanship. This double silver photograph frame would make a perfect addition to a collection and would look interesting when displayed. Overall height : 25.20 cms. Overall width : 37.00 cms. Inner height : 20.40 cms. Inner width : 15.30 cms. Excellent condition. This frame was hallmarked in London for 1904 by J.C.Vickery and remains in excellent condition. Complimentary postage is included within the price.
