Description

This pair of Victorian wall lights have been converted from gas to electric. Because of this conversion, the lowest brass section is later. The lights depict lion heads with a reeded brass tube coming from its mouth, finished by a moulded brass section. Hanging from this reeded tube is a dome topped spike chandelier. These little spike chandeliers are really nice quality, with two beads above the spikes. These lights have a large bayonet bulb holder B 22. st 3147
