Description

Early C19th Regency period gilt-wood frame convex plate mirror of Grecian revival design. Circular gilt-framed convex mirror with Greek classical motif decoration of anthemion or 'honeysuckle' design to the quartered border. The central convex mirror-plate with a reeded and ebonised slip surround. The original silver-grey mercury mirror plate having achieved a wonderful atmospheric degraded 'shot' patina and finish. The original gilding and decoration in excellent original condition. The fashionable Greek-revival style of the early C19th Regency period was popularised by the classically-influenced designs of architects and designers such as Thomas Hope and Alexander "Greek" Thomson.
