Description

This is a very stylish 18th century chest of drawers. The overall condition is very good with no major issues. The drawers have been painted recently in the traditional manner by a trained restorer. The grey mottled paint is very attractive and would sit well in a number of interiors. The panels even show sign of some of the original decoration. The drawers all run smoothly and have the large brass pulls. Structurally solid and very heavy piece of furniture which shows its quality.
