Description

A fine early Victorian lead crystal decanter c1850. The decanter is beautifully engraved with a Greek key pattern around the shoulder and base with a contrasting deep engraved pattern of bunches of foliage. The base is star cut. The baluster neck base is cut in a graduated diamond design rising up the neck in slice cuts. The stopper, original and with a perfect fit, is diamond cut. There is a minuscule nibble at base of stopper (see photo). It does not affect the aesthetic or fit. This is a pretty and decorative early Victorian decanter for wine or fortified wines such as port or sherry.
