Description

This is a set of 6 antique shield back chairs. An English, mahogany and leather dining seat with Hepplewhite taste, dating to the Georgian period, circa 1800. Enhance your dining experience with six superb chairs. Displaying a desirable aged patina and in good order. Select stocks expertly crafted and showing rich caramel hues. Delightfully aged claret leather cushions show fine character. With the expressive taste of Hepplewhite, the shield backs draw the eye. Delicately carved Prince of Wales plume of feathers flourish beneath the shaped top rail. Ovoid black splats with sash detail reach an apex as they intersect the lower rail. Shaped hips meet with the traditionally stuffed cushions, each accentuated with press stud trim. Standing upon tapering front legs, narrowing to an arrow foot. Gently splayed rear legs of square section arc gracefully from the back rest. This is a superb set of 6 antique shield back chairs. In the manner of Hepplewhite, the attractive back rests are delicately carved with fine detail and form. The existing aged leather presents a charming character - the seating is supportive and comfortable. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and...
