Description

A nice size farmhouse kitchen table, made from English pine, dating from the early Victorian era. Good condition with a rustic aged appearance - may have been used as a scrubbing table. There are two removable leaves of differing widths which effectively means that you can insert both to give its maximum length, or use one or the other to give two shorter lengths. The leaves are secured by hooks and eyes below the table surface. The legs are very chunky and turned in a Corinthian style. Originally painted and recently stripped, exposing a very nice bare wood. Can be purchased in the bare wood for £500 or wax polished for £597. Height 31", Legroom Height 25", Length 43"/45"/51.5", Width 36"
