Description

This is a very handsome 19th century Aesthetic movement oak and black leather desk. It is made by furniture makers D&H Waddington of Bolton. The quality overall is very high with nice details to the legs which give the piece a very elegant stance even though it is extremely deep. It has two smooth running drawers as well making a very practical piece of furniture. The casters are all original and other than a nice aged patina to the piece there are no major faults.
