Description

Date & Origin Unknown, c1920 Condition Excellent, no chips cracks, or restoration Dimensions Height Decanter: 12.5cm Diameter: 12cm. Height Glasses: 8.5cm Diameter 5.7cm Technical Description A magnificent and very rare Art Deco Decanter and six matching glasses. The decanter has its original amber stopper above a clear ribbed body with yellow and orange enameled grasses above an amber ball knopped stem and foot. The six glasses have a matching design. We have only come across this design once before, around 15 years ago, with light/dark green grasses. We have never seen a yellow/orange example. Historical Relevance Sir Arthur Conan Doyle died on the 7th July 1930 and Sean Connery was born on the 25th Aug.
