Description

Here is a lovely example of a late Victorian Vaseline / Uranium Glass vase that glows a striking luminous yellow-green when viewed under a UV light. I have seen this vase in several collections attributed to the John 'Walsh' Walsh company. Dating to the end of the 19th century, the vase has a ruffled neck, and an intricate pattern of dots within spiral bands that radiate out from the base. The vase stands 11cm high, and 8cm across its widest part, and is in excellent condition, glossy and lustrous with no chips or cracks. There is a tiny black fleck on the top of the rim, which dates back to the manufacture of the glass and has corresponding colour to the bottom of the smoothed pontil mark. Please see photographs. Please do not hesitate to get in touch if I can provide any further information.
