Description

A charming little individual inkstand made from silver plate and dating to the late Victorian era, around 1900. The silver plated stand is in the shape of a horseshoe and stands on it's original four ball feet, the underside is marked N (butterfly) S, so I think either continental or perhaps American in origin. The back of the stand is mounted with two riding crops which would accommodate a small dip pen. The crystal inkwell is mounted with a horseshoe shaped top which flips up to dip one's pen and then drops shut to keep to prevent the ink drying out. The front of the inkwell is cut-out just like a horse's hoof. Charming in every way and in excellent condition, the base measuring 3" x 2 1/2" and stands 3" tall to top of riding crops.
