Description

We are delighted to offer this classical Victorian 18K gold antique ring made in Birmingham, 1857. The ring features 3 beautiful old faceted cut sapphires which have a lovely translucent blue hue. The central sapphire is flanked by 4 old rose cut diamonds. The gemstones are set in 18K antique gold with fine claws in classical Victorian style. The ring is fully hallmarked for Birmingham 1857 with English marks. Sapphire is known to be the birthstone of September. A very special gift to a lucky individual or as an indulging gift to oneself. Perfect for discerning antique jewellery lovers and those with an eye for classical elegance. All of our rings come with a complimentary hard shell gift box with a velvet interior. Size Total Weight UK Size T US Size 9 1/2 2.56g / 0.082 oz t Condition: Good antique condition with no major issues or damage - some wear around the facet (edges) of the gem, due to the ring being Victorian and over 100 years old. We aim to overemphasise and state these issues to avoid disappointment in person and thus please rest assured they are not significant and often look further impressive in person.
