Description

This stunning Gothic Revival panel is from the top section of a church stained glass window - beautiful and bright, the lead forming the outline of the image with a mixture of pot metal glass with rich ruby reds and cobalt blues, depicting church buildings amongst green foliage, and golden scrolls. There are some beautiful painted sections amongst the design, notably the leaf decoration, and the representation of the stone carving adorning the church building. The panel stands 72cm high, 55cm across the base and 34cm across the middle section. It's in good condition and has remained untouched since it was removed from the church so would probably need the lead looking at if you were hoping to fit it as an actual external window as some of the leading is understandably fragile. Overall, it's a fantastic looking piece, with a few small barely noticeable cracks namely two in the glass of the green foliage and one in a side panel (please see photographs), but this really doesn't detract from it at all, as I hope you can see from the images. Please don't hesitate to get in touch if I can provide any further information, or if I can help with arranging a delivery quote.
