Description

A Beautiful Pair of Victorian Gilt Bracket Wall Mirrors by Charles Nosotti, Oxford Street, London. Bursting with beautiful detail from this top C19th carver and gilder. The pediment with central cartouche with insert flower. Flanked by pretty floral scroll work. The perimeter of the frames having the most wonderful link chain detail. The bracket shelves have attractive supports featuring central flower head with petal detail and scallop shell. Finished with a large acanthus leaf. The mirror plates have slight foxing and small blemishes in places which add to their charm. An exquisite pair of mirrors from one of the 19th century's master craftsman workshops and its quite rare to find a pair. The mirrors come into their own when the brackets are utilised for flowers, sculpture or a candelabra. The original brass makers plate of Charles Nosotti is still intact to the back. Shelf depth is 21cm. Charles Andrew Nosotti (1798-1854) was born in or near Milan. His year of birth is recorded on his plaque on the Dissenters' Chapel at Kensal Green Cemetery. He was in business in London by 1822. In 1827 he married Amelia Ruenia Garbanati, daughter of Joseph Garbanati, another Ital...
